ever, hold that where a party takes subject to ever, noid that where a party takes subject to a usurious morgage he cannot impeaca the security. [Green vs. Kemp. 13 Mass., 515; Read-ing vs. Weston, 7 Conn., 409; Loomis vs. Eaton, 32 Conn., 550; Backus vs. taihoun, 45 Aia., 582; Fit-Ider vs. Varner, do., 429; Stephen vs. Muir., 8 Ind., 352; Henderson vs. Bellew, 45 Ill., 352; Huston vs. Stringham, 21 Iowa, 44; F. and M. bank vs. Kimmel, 1 Mich, 81.] Unfortunately, the only two decisions of the bank vs. Kimmel, I Mich, 81.]

Unfortunately, the only two decisions of the supreme court of the United States are in direct conflict upon this point. The first is that of DeWolf vs. Johnson, 10 Wheaton. This was a bill to foreclose a mortgage which the assignee of the equity of redemption attemped to deceat by proof of usury between the mortgagor and the mortgages. The terms of sale of the property were expressly subjet when the incumbrances of any previous mortgage or deed of trust, particularly a mortgage det do DeWolf, from Prentis, dated, "etc. In disposing of the case the court observed. deed to De Wolf, from Prentis, dated," etc. In disposing of the case the court observed, "Again it is perfectly is this shed that the plea of usury, at least as far as to bonded security, is personal and pecu iar, and however a third person, having an interest in the land, may be affected, incidentally, by a usurious contract, he cannot take advantage of the usury." Here, then, the case presents a third person, the assignee of an equity of redemption, setting up a defense, which, in one aspect, Prenting up a defense, which, in one aspect, Pren-iis himself cannot set up; and which, in another aspect, he has not set up; but, on the contrary, instead of pleading, must have re-fus d to set up or have abandoned." • • • • fus d to set up or have abandoned." So the But, had they purchased from Prentis in the most absolute and general manner, and altogother without notice, actual or constructive, they still could have acquired no more than an equity of stedemption, and that would not have transferred to them the right of availing themselves of the plea of usury. It would, in deed, be astonishing were it otherwise, for the contrary rule would hold out no relief to the borrower. It would be only transferring his money from the pocket of the lender to the pocket of the holder of the equity of redemption." volves the same principle. One Scholfield, the owner of certain real estate in Alexandria, in consideration of five thousand dollars, granted consideration of five thousand dollars, granted to one Moore, his heirs and assigns forever, an annuity of five hundred dollars, payable in half-yearly instalments, with power to distrain for non-payment. Scholfield, subsequently, conveyed to the plaintiff, Lloyd, the property in question, subject to this reat charge. Upon distress being afterward made for rent, Lloyd brought replevin, claiming the annuity or rent charge was a mere device to cover a usurious loan. The court held that he could defend upon this ground, and disposed of the case of De Wolff vs. Johnson, by sayin a chat "the question whether the purchaser of an equity of redemption can show usury in the mortgage, to defeat a forclosure, was not involved in that case" It is true the case was disposed of upon two grounds, one of which was that the contract was not in fact usurious, and the other that the defendant could not take advantage of usury if any had axisted. But there is nothing to indicate the usurious, and the other that the defendant could not take advantage of usury if any had existed. But there is nothing to indicate it was not decided as much upon one ground as the other. This opinion in Lloyd vs. scott, though contrary to a great weight of authority and of the prior decision of the court which announced it, I am bound to respect as the later adjudication of the court, and it apparently strikes at the root of the general rule in the opening of this opinion. That the defense of usury is personal to the borrower, I think the principle there aunonneed covers the case under consideration. It is true, as argued by the defendants, that the plaintiff and every purchaser of bonds acquired the argued by the defendants, that the plaintiffs and every purchaser of bonds acquired the bonds they noted with the understanding and upon the condition that the deed of trust securing them, secured alike the whole issue of six hundred bonds, and that the contract between all the parties was, that each of the tonds was secured by one-six hundredth part of the property conveyed. At the same time every purchaser of these bonds had a right to assume that they were negotiated at a legal assume that they were negotiated at a lega rate of interest and were interested in the rate of interest and were interested in their realizing for the company as much as possible. Every dollar received by the company from the sale of these bond, and subsequent ly put upon the waterworks added to the security of every other bondholder. If tonds were sold at but fifty cents on the dollar, but half the money would be realized that there would have been had the bonds been sold at par. By one-ball the amount of these bonds. par. By one-half the amount of these bonds, therefore, the security of each bondholder would be lessened.

But there is a defect in the case made by the cross-bill which seems to me fatal to the relief sought. The parties to these suits are contestants for priority of payment. The cross-bill sets forth the usury in the contracts under which the defendants held these bonds; prays that the trustees named in the mortages may be enjoined from selling the propergage may be enjoined from selling the proper ty, and that the bouds i-sued to the defend ants may be surrendered and canceled. The ants may be surrendered and canceled. The rule in equity is well established that affirmative relief against a usurlous contract will be granted only upon condition that the plaintiff pay the defendant the amount of money advanced, or at seast allow a decree therefor. This rule has been repeatedly recognized by the supreme court of the United States. [See Brown vs. Swan, 10 Pet., 457; Stanley vs. Gadsby, 522; Tiffany vs. Boatmen's association, 18 Wall, 385] In the case of Spain vs. Hamilton's, administrator [I Wall, 604], it was held that the complainant who was contesting his

that the complainant who was con that the complainant who was contesting his claim to priority upon a fund in the treasury, could only have relief for the excess over the real debt. I see no reason why that rule is no applicable here. While it would not be necessary for the complainant in a bill of this kind to offer to pay the defendants the amount of money advanced to them with legal interest. I think they should consent, as a condition of the relief sough, that the defendants have decrees for the should so advanced. This The court fixed the official bonds of this county trustee in the total sum of one hundred and fitty-five thousand dollars, which is much lower than heretofore, as this officer is now required to make monthly instead of annual settlements, as formerly. The county trustee's bonds are as fo lows:

State tax bond $50,000 County tax bond $25,000 the fund to be realized from the sale of the properly. Without undertaking to decide whether a bill might not be filed after the sale of the property, praying for a reduction of this claim to the amount actually advanced with legal interest, or whether this till may not be amended so as to accomplish, practically, the same purpose, it seems to me that in its present anape the case made by the cross complainants contained. The demurrer to the cross-bill must therefore be sustained.

District Judge.
